Youth sports fund faces £270k cut

SPORTS funding for schools in the Forest Heath district is being cut by £270,000 a year.

The Forest Heath School Sports Partnership, which includes schools in Newmarket and Mildenhall, has been hit by the Government's spending review announced last month.

It is among 450 other partnerships across the country which will face the funding cuts at the end of current academic year.

Peter Lane, manager of the partnership, said: "Over the last five years, my team and I have worked hard to increase the amount of sporting opportunities available to young people in our schools."

"Primary school teachers have benefited from training that has provided them with the skills to deliver fun and varied PE lessons. Young people attending middle schools have enjoyed a considerable number of inter school competitions whilst colleges in the district have benefited from sports leadership programmes that have developed confident young leaders who are of a real benefit to the community."

"We are doing all we can to encourage the Government to reverse their decision, but we are realistically having to plan for a future with considerably less resources."

Funding for the partnership comes from a variety of government sources and provides schools with sports coaches, after school clubs and equipment among other things.

Ministers have indicated that the funding would be allocated to schools directly.

Cllr Mick Jefferys, mayor of Newmarket and an assistant principal at Newmarket College, said: "What we currently have is a well co-ordinated approach to the development of school sport that is of benefit to all young people across the district."

"The proposal to allocate funds direct to schools will potentially mean that not all schools will invest in the partnership and that will be to the detriment of young people who have derived considerable benefit over the last few years."

"With the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games less than two years away, this demonstrates a complete lack of foresight and leaves me wondering what the lasting legacy of the Games will be."

The partnership was this week organising a multi-skills festival at Newmarket College for 250 pupils from primary schools in the town.

EX-SERVICE organisations and civic leaders joined together to pay Remembrance Sunday tributes in Newmarket and Mildenhall.

Retired Deputy Lieutenant of Suffolk and former Jockey Club Agent Robert Fellowes laid the first wreath at the Newmarket ceremony.

Others were laid by civic leaders and ex-service organisations.

Matthew Hancock, MP for West Suffolk – the constituency which includes both towns, laid wreaths at both ceremonies.

He said: "Especially at this time with our country at war, we must never forget those brave men and woman who gave their lives. Those who fought for our freedom in the last century, and those fighting for our safety now, are prepared to make the ultimate sacrifice for us and for their country."

memorial marched to the town's All Saints Church for the service of remembrance. It was a switch of venue after a number of years when the ceremony has been staged at the Tattersalls racehorse sales ring and the church was full to capacity.

Refreshments were provided afterwards at the town's bowls club.

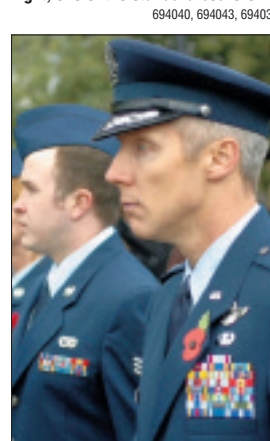

At the Mildenhall ceremony on Sunday the first wreath was laid by another Deputy Lieutenant of Suffolk, Robin Upton.

New Mildenhall Royal British Legion branch chairman George Hayes marshalled the parade to the town's St Mary's Church where the service was conducted by the Reverend Sue Leathley.

Other wreath laying ceremonies were held at Barton Mills, Beck Row, Freckenham, Worlington and a Saturday ceremony at West Row.

Majority 'support new Tesco store plans'

PLANS for a new Tesco store in Newmarket were welcomed by a majority of people who visited an exhibition of the proposals on Saturday.

Representatives of the store chain and its developers said that around 85 per cent of people who visited the exhibition in the town's Rutland Arms Hotel supported the scheme.

Tesco is proposing to replace its current store off Fordham Road with a new one which would be around twice the size with a total floor area of 70,000 sq ft. It would also provide an additional 200 jobs.

The new eco-store, which will incorporate the latest energy-efficiency technology, is due to be built on the site of an empty warehouse next to the current store.

The company hopes to submit a formal planning application before Christmas and, if all the necessary approvals are given, the new store could be open by Easter 2012.

The existing store would be demolished and the site used for car parking once the new one is opened.

Among the exhibition visitors were local MP Matthew Hancock, town mayor Cllr Mick Jefferys, members of Newmarket Town Council, councillors from Forest Heath District Council and East Cambridgeshire District Council.

Louise Gosling, Tesco corporate affairs manager, said: "We were delighted that people took the time to visit the exhibition and were prepared to offer their views on our plans for a better store. Naturally it was very pleasing that such a large majority said they supported our ideas.

"We will now study the feedback from the exhibition as we prepare a planning application for submission to Forest Heath District Council by the end of the year."

The exhibition of the plans has been moved to the current store where it will be on display until this weekend.

Private talks bid set to be rejected

TOWN councillors are expected to snub an offer of private talks over controversial plans to build 1,200 new homes.

Lord Derby, who wants to develop 160 acres of land he owns at Hatchfield Farm, Newmarket, has offered to meet members of the town council to discuss their opposition to the scheme.

The plan, which has been refused planning permission, is opposed by the town's horse racing industry whose leaders have argued that it will end the town's unique status as the home of horseracing.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

They are worried about the extra traffic and the effect on horses which have to cross the roads to get to the exercise gallops.

Some of the industry's most powerful personalities, including Sheikh Mohammed, ruler of Dubai, are among those opposed to the scheme.

Two months ago Lord Derby made a similar offer to meet the town council which was also turned down.

Now he has repeated his suggestion and, although a response is subject to approval by councillors at a full council meeting on Monday, it is likely to be turned down again.

Cllr Richard Fletcher, who chairs the council's development and planning committee, has written a draft letter in which he says that the council would not meet Lord Derby in private.

He also points out that the council's views on the scheme have been previously made clear.

Cllr Fletcher said: "We would be willing to hear from him at a public meeting if there was a new planning application. But our objections are well documented and we can't be meeting a developer in private."

The time limit for an appeal against Forest Heath District Council's refusal of planning permission expires early next month.

A legal challenge to the district council's core strategy for developments to the year 2031 is set to be heard in the High Court before Christmas.

Lord Derby has joined the council in opposing an application by the racing industry to have Hatchfield Farm removed from the strategy.

Ex-mayor's mother-in-law in rail tragedy

A FORMER mayor of Newmarket's mother-in-law died when she was struck by a train on a foot crossing.

Dorothy Blemmer, 77, of Old Station Road, Newmarket, died on Friday, November 5, near the town's station.

The funeral of Mrs Blemmer, whose daughter Lise is the wife of former mayor George Lambton, was held at St Agnes Church in Bury Road, Newmarket, on Friday.

An inquest into her death was opened and adjourned to allow the completion of an investigation by British Transport Police, who said the incident was "non-suspicious".

She died in a collision with single-coach passenger train travelling from Ipswich to Cambridge. The incident happened at the foot crossing between Cricketfield Road and Granby Street.

Mrs Blemmer was the second person to die on the same stretch of railway line in a month. Nico Davies-Sober, 17, of New Cheveley Road, Newmarket, died in a collision with a train in the area of the Warren Hill tunnel on October 6.

Three flee police after drugs farm find

THREE men ran off when police discovered a house being used as a drug farm. Officers were alerted by suspicious neighbours in Rous Road, Newmarket, on Tuesday afternoon. When they arrived at the property with the landlord, they were initially unable to get in. But three men, described as Asian, later ran off. Extra police were called in to the area together with a police helicopter, but they were unable to trace the men. A Suffolk police spokesman said: "Several hundred cannabis plants were found in the property together with hydroponic equipment."

Driver injured on A14

A MAN was taken to hospital after his car crashed through the central reservation on the A14 on Saturday. The motorist was travelling in a blue Vauxhall Vectra along the westbound carriageway at Swaffham Bulbeck at 7.45am when the accident occurred. Cambridgeshire police and ambulance staff attended the scene. The driver suffered slight injuries and was taken to Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge.

No other vehicles were involved. Two lanes of westbound A14 were closed for two hours.

A spokesman from Cambridgeshire police said: "The driver lost control of his car and went through the reservation and came out onto the other carriageway."

P.O. service to restart

WEEKLY post office sessions will restart at Dalham next Wednesday after the completion of the village hall refurbishment.

The service, run by Roger Dicker, who operates the post office and stores in nearby Kentford, was stopped in May when work started on the village hall. Now the work is complete, the service, which operates between 2pm and 4pm, will return.

A Post Office spokesman said: "We know that the local community will welcome this good news and our sub-postmaster from Kentford Post Office who runs this satellite service looks forward to welcoming customers to the new, improved premises."

Man hurt in attack

A MAN suffered facial injuries when he was attacked in Mildenhall's Market Place just after midnight.

Two men ran off to a nearby pub after the assault on the 29-year-old man at around 12.05am on Sunday.

One of the attackers was wearing a blue check shirt and the other was wearing a navy blue T-shirt.

Anyone with information should call Det Con Sarah Shepperson at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Festive bazaar

A CHRISTMAS bazaar at a residential home for the elderly will help raise money for visits to shows, which could include a pantomime.

The event is the first of its kind to be staged at Ness Court, Burwell, and will be held on Saturday between 2pm and 4pm. It will include Santa's grotto, a raffle and a cake stall.

Smash and grab

A HANDBAG and a wallet were stolen from two cars after thieves smashed windows.

A green Volkswagen Golf and a green Nissan Micra were in a car park in Hamilton Road, Newmarket, between 1.30pm and 3pm last Friday when the incident happened.

Police have warned motorists not to leave valuable items in parked vehicles.

Anyone with information should call Suffolk police Crime Investigation Bureau on (01473) 613500 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Arson attacks destroy partly-built houses

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

POLICE are investigating two arson attacks which destroyed four partly-built houses and badly damaged two more.

A block of four wood-framed houses on a site off Warren Road, Red Lodge, partly collapsed after a fire broke out just after 6am on Sunday.

More than 30 firefighters, using five fire engines, a turntable ladder and a water carrier attended.

The houses were built up to first floor height.

Less than seven hours later fire crews were called to a similar incident when a pair of unfinished semi-detached houses were found on fire on another part of the site. Severe damage was caused.

Police estimated the damage at £600,000.

Cllr Pat McCloud, who represents the village on Forest Heath District Council, said the incident was the latest in a spate of vandalism on building sites where 1,500 new homes are being built.

He said: "I'm flabbergasted. It's such a shame that these idiots have to do this sort of thing. All you can say is that it's mindless."

Police have confirmed that the incidents are being investigated as arson and have appealed for information.

They want to trace a group of three youths, believed to be around 14 years old who were seen in the area.

They also want to identify a group of men seen near the houses.

They were an elderly man with white hair, a man thought to be in his 40s, a man thought to be in his 20s with short hair and a fourth man for whom there is no description.

Anyone with information should call Det Sgt Helen Sowerby at West Suffolk CID (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Help for companies planning growth

A FREE tourism road show event is aimed at helping businesses in the Newmarket area develop their share of the market – particularly with the 2012 London Olympics looming.

The event, hosted by Choose Suffolk as part of the Enterprise Engagement Programme in partnership with Lloyds TSB is entitled Planning for Growth. It will be staged at Palace House, Newmarket, on Thursday, December 9.

The partnership with Lloyds TSB will give attendees access to the latest in-depth information from representatives of the sponsor who are experts in managing growth. The bank is also one of the main sponsors of the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games and has identified tourism as one of the UK's key growth areas.

Steve Elsom, area director of Lloyds TSB Commercial for East Anglia, said: "Tourism is a key industry in Suffolk. Lloyds TSB currently supports many customers who are involved in tourism both directly or indirectly and we are

Poles fought for freedom

Sir, Perhaps all the people expressing anti-Polish views should perhaps reflect during the Remembrance season on the following:

Some 17,000 Polish men and women served with the Polish air force in Britain during the Second World War. Polish pilots shot down 745 enemy aircraft with 175 unconfirmed. Polish bomber squadrons flew missions over Europe and Germany; 1,973 being killed; 1,388 wounded.

The 2nd Polish Army Corps served in North Africa and Italy, Polish troops being the first to storm the monastery at Monte Cassino. The 1st Polish Armoured Division, of which my father was part, served in all the bitter fighting in Europe and the 1st Polish Parachute Brigade was dropped at Arnhem to be all but wiped out in a futile rearguard action.

At the end of hostilities, the Poles were refused a place in the victory parade because the western powers, having handed Poland on a plate to Stalin, feared upsetting their Eastern ally.

The Poles gave their lives willingly for freedom in the defence of our islands. Why repay this sacrifice with anger and bitterness?

Characters pop up in musical

FAIRY tale characters crop up in a Stephen Sondheim musical which is the latest production by Newmarket's amateur dramatic group NOMADS.

Into the Woods, based on a book by James Lapine, brings together Cinderella, Rapunzel, Little Red Riding Hood and Jack from Jack and the Beanstalk.

They all play a role in the quest by the Baker, played by Tim McCormick, and his wife, played by Amanda Aldridge, to lift a witch's curse so that they can have a family.

Sondheim's often humorous lyrics help advance the plot in the show directed by Andy Ward and Fiona Maguire. Craig Sayers is musical director and choreography is by Andy Thorpe.

The show is staged at Kings Theatre in Fitzroy Street, Newmarket, from next Monday to Saturday. Tickets, priced £12 (£10 concessions Monday only), can be booked by calling the theatre on (01638) 663337.

Moving tribute to 'angel' Katherine

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

TRIBUTES were paid at the funeral of a popular teacher who was killed in a collision with a car while out jogging.

St Mary's Church in Newmarket was filled with mourners for the funeral of Katherine Colson, 28.

She died on October 29 when she was jogging at Ten Mile Bank near her home in Black Horse Drove, Littleport.

Her partner Graham Maynard, who had intended to propose to her during a planned skiing holiday, said, in a tribute read at the service by the Rev Graham Locking: "She was like the treasure at the end of the rainbow."

"My angel has returned to heaven."

Students and teachers from King Edward VI School at Bury St Edmunds, where she was a science teacher, were at the service.

Geoff Barton, head-teacher, said: "When she joined us in September 2004 we knew we had a star.

Tragedy: family and friends paid tribute to Katherine Colson at her funeral last week.

"Katie Colson mattered a lot to us."

He said students and former students had left personal tributes on a board at the school and many praised her ability to get them to achieve more than they expected.

"She helped a new generation to be passionate about science," he said.

A personal tribute from her sister, Sarah, was also read out at the service.

Music played at the service included Dream Catch Me by Newton Faulkner, Goodbye My Lover by James Blunt, Everlasting Love by the Love Affair and Just the Way You Are by Bruno Mars.

Katherine was brought up in Newmarket and went to the town's St Louis Primary School. Her late father, Keith, worked at Sheikh Mohammed's Dalham Hall Stud where the family lived for a time.

Her mother Alanna, who lives in Kennett, works for racehorse trainer James Fanshawe.

Miss Colson and Mr Maynard had been working for two years renovating a property in Swaffham Prior where they were due to live.

A celebration of Miss Colson's life is to be held in Bury St Edmunds cathedral on November 24.

Donations were collected at the funeral for Macmillan Cancer Support and Isleham Horse Rescue Centre.

■ A 31-year-old woman from Welney who was driving the Fiat car involved in the crash remains in Addenbrooke's Hospital. The car demolished a wall and ended up on its side. A police investigation into the crash is continuing.

New position for town's festive tree

NEWMARKET'S Christmas tree has been put up in a new location for the first time this year.

The town council spent £4,600 on having a hole dug for the tree and electrical connections laid on for the lights.

Now contractors have put up the tree, donated by Elveden Farms, at its new location next to the town's Clocktower.

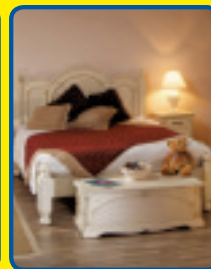

Kay Dawson, the town council's events manager, said: "I had hoped we could have moved the tree last year, but the person I was dealing with at the county council left and no-one else knew anything about it."

The tree was previously sited on Rutland Hill in the High Street. A smaller tree has been placed on the site.

An official lights switch on ceremony will be held on Tuesday, December 7, as part of the town's late shopping night. The ceremony will be carried out by the mayor Cllr Mick Jefferys, together with Santa and local artist Paula Wilson.

Boost for school pool funds

A RAFFLE has raised more than £700 to help reopen a primary school's derelict swimming pool.

Hundreds of people enjoyed a performance by Todd Miller and the Joe Loss Orchestra at The Brook, Soham, on Friday.

A raffle was also held at the event in aid of the St Andrew's School Swimming Pool Association and raised more than £700.

The association is hoping to reopen the run-down swimming pool at St Andrew's Primary School and provide a new, covered pool for all primary school children in Soham.

A spokeswoman for the association said: "We are hugely grateful to Dan Schumann and the rest of the team at The Brook for allowing us to hold the raffle at the event."

Volunteers are also appealing for donations to help fund the project.

Vandal smashes window

A HOODIE-wearing vandal was seen running off after the back window of a parked car was smashed.

The blue Vauxhall Vectra was parked in Windsor Road, Newmarket, when the incident happened at around 10.10pm on Saturday.

A man was seen running off towards Valley Way. He was described as white, in his early 20s with short dark hair. He was about 5ft 11in tall and was wearing a white hooded top and dark coloured trousers. He was carrying a carrier bag and a small bat.

Anyone with information should call Pc Lisa Evans at Mildenhall Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Racehorse sales enter home straight for year

THE final racehorse sales of the year get under way in Newmarket next week with the December yearling sale on Monday.

The December foal sale follows between Wednesday, November 24, and Saturday, November 27, before the last sale of the year – the December breeding stock sale – between November 29 and December 2.

The most recent sale, the Tattersalls Autumn Horses in Training Sale, saw similar results to the previous year's sale.

This year 865 horses were sold for a total of £18.4 million with the average price paid £21,337.

The previous year £18.3 million was spent on 903 horses with the average price of £20,299.

Edmond Mahony, Tattersalls chairman, said: "Our October Yearling Sales achieved figures broadly in line with last year's returns and the trade this week at the Autumn Horses in Training Sale has performed very similarly.

"The turnover of just over 17,500,000 guineas is up a little on 2009, as is the average, while the median is the same as last year. The slightly larger catalogue has resulted in a lower clearance rate than the exceptional 85% at the 2009 fixture, but has improved upon the clearance rates in both 2007 and 2008.

"Another positive was the 550,000 guineas top price for Hearts of Fire which was the second highest price ever at the Autumn Horses in Training Sale and the diversity amongst the leading buyers has been particularly encouraging.

"In many ways it has been a typical Autumn Horses in Training Sale – huge numbers of overseas buyers at all levels of the market, combined with solid domestic demand from both flat and National Hunt owners and trainers. The global reputation of this sale for providing quality and value for money is the feature which continues to bring buyers to the sale in such numbers and the current weakness of sterling makes it even more enticing for our international clients."

Council's help in database wins award

A COUNCIL has won a top award for helping create a national database of all properties.

A spokeswoman for Forest Heath District Council said: "We are delighted to have won the 2010 Best In Region Exemplar Award for the quality and accuracy of our Local Land and Property Gazetteer. We are setting the standard in this field of work and are extremely proud of all the staff involved in the project.

"This high quality local data is pooled at a national hub to produce the National Land and Property Gazetteer which is then used by many other organisations across local government.

"The awards are organised by Intelligent Addressing Ltd and Local Government Information House. They recognise the outstanding achievements of local authorities, local partnerships, police forces and fire and rescue services, in the creation, maintenance and utilisation of the National Land & Property Gazetteer and the National Street Gazetteer."

Mildenhall

MUSIC lovers in the Mildenhall area were treated to a fine performance last month, given in the name of an excellent charity, when the little church of St Laurence at Eriswell was packed to the doors for a splendid choral concert, arranged and conducted by another West Row entrepreneur, Trevor Nicholls.

All proceeds from the two-part concert will be shared between the church and meningitis research, whose cause was well explained by local doctor John Bruton. He performed some amusing songs during the second half of the programme.

In the earlier part of the evening, the Mildenhall Team Choir and the Glaven Valley group from Bury St Edmunds joined forces, under Mr Nicholls' direction, with John Ramsbottom providing organ accompaniment to two works performed. Firstly, Antonio Vivaldi's Gloria (RV589) was quite beautifully sung, with some tremendously expressive solo work from Jayne May-Sysum and Meg Starling.

Their wide range and high quality of tone were spectacular, not only in the Vivaldi work but also later on. Joining them, in quieter but equally expressive mood, was contralto Lesley Nicholls.

At the recent Recreational Management Committee, Mildenhall parish councillors had several matters to discuss. Recently, there has seemed to be an increase of litter on the Jubilee Fields. This has caused additional staff labour time to be required, the likelihood of damage to costly equipment and the general unsightliness of litter in a well used and generally appreciated open area.

As a result, the Recreational Management Committee members considered new anti-litter notices, together with a proof of a revamp of the necessary parish council by-laws which have been in operation for a good number of years.

In addition it was agreed to remove the four damaged and now redundant steps on the slope behind the council office pavilion area.

However, members agreed to consider at a later stage how they can complete a firm pathway from the new car park up to the higher level beside the Jubilee Centre.

The final part the work was to consider the proposed committee budget for 2011/12, which shows a slight increase in both income and expenditure.

Having been agreed in this committee, the figures will now go into the amalgamated budgetary totals, which the Establishments and Policy Committee consider later this autumn, before the full council makes known its total precept which is passed to the collecting authority, Forest Heath District Council.

Soham

HEARTBEAT Health Walk: On Monday, November 1 three new walkers joined the group, bringing the total membership to over 50. This week 38 walkers took part in a 3.4-mile walk around Soham. Liz Gwinnett was the leader with David Clarke and Laurie Budd at the back. Refreshments were available at The Ship or Saucy megabites.

Over 60s Club: Mrs Ruth Ginn welcomed members to the club on Friday, November 5. Andy Malcolm from the Fishermen's Mission was the speaker. He began with a personal history and how he became involved as a fundraiser for the Fishermen's Mission, the only national charity with the sole purpose of providing financial, practical and emotional support to deep sea fishermen and their families in distress. They depend solely on voluntary contributions to continue their work. Andy told stories, read poems and sang sea shanties. A collection amounted to £50 and this was presented to Andy. During the afternoon MP Jim Paice visited and chatted to members. Cakes and tea were served, Ruth gave out notices and offered complimentary tickets to the Cannon and Ball show at The Brook.

Soham The Fen and Barway WI: President Sheila Knight welcomed 23 members to the meeting on Friday, November 5. This was the final meeting in Keith Leonard House and members will be notified of the new venue before the meeting in February 2011. The menu for the Christmas dinner was handed round. Susan Taylor, who with husband Peter had been on holiday to Australia, gave an excellent illustrated talk. Sheila organised the raffle bringing the meeting to a close.

Methodist News: Songs of Praise – There was an excellent attendance at the Songs of Praise evening on Saturday, November 6. Wendy Beeton welcomed everyone, the Rev Edwin Myers gave his welcome before handing over to Ivan Cox who took the service. Between the singing of the hymns Ivan related many humorous stories.

Debbie Bullman led the singing for choruses set to popular tunes.

Taking part were Vernon Place, John King, Ann Willett, Edith Whiting, Jean Murfitt and Clive Jones.

A collection was taken during which Jim Ames played piano. He was also the organiser for the hymn singing.

Debbie Bullman presented Ivan Cox with a tin of chocolates. He thanked everyone and the service closed with the singing of God Be With You.

The congregation were invited to the schoolroom for tea and refreshments.

Tributes paid to councillor by former MP

A FORMER MP has praised the leadership of a long-serving former county councillor who has died aged 85.

The funeral of Jim Crickmere, who represented Newmarket on Suffolk County Council between 1985 and 2001, was held yesterday at the town's All Saints Church.

Mr Crickmere was nursed at his home in The Avenue for the past two years by his wife Shirley, a former chairman of Forest Heath District Council.

She said: "We've had a wonderful life together and enjoyed all sorts of things – especially our love of cats."

Richard Spring, who stood down as the town's MP earlier this year, praised Mr Crickmere's "loyalty, patience, good humour and common-sense". He also paid tribute to the couple's "wonderful" leadership of the Conservative party locally.

Mr Crickmere was born in Newmarket and served in the Army, the Royal Engineers (REME), during the Second World War reaching the rank of sergeant.

After the war he returned to Marshall's in Cambridge where he had been a trainee electrician before joining the Army.

He and his wife lived in Africa for more than 20 years where he worked in Nigeria, Ghana and Morocco helping to set up factories and supervise businesses.

The couple lived in London from the late 1970s until the early 1980s while Mr Crickmere was a technical adviser in the United Africa Company's office in Blackfriars.

He became a Freeman of the City of London and Liveryman of the Worshipful Company of Painter Stainers.

He was a Freemason since 1963 and was chairman of the Newmarket Masonic Social Club in 1990 and 1991.

He was also secretary of Newmarket Chamber of Trade from 1984 to 1988.

He suffered a heart attack in 2001 and had a successful bypass operation in Papworth Hospital the following year.

But in recent years he had suffered failing health.

He is survived by three children and three grandchildren.

Donations at his funeral were in aid of St Nicholas Hospice, Bury St Edmunds

Thieves take horse tack

HORSE tack, including bridles, saddles and rugs, has been stolen from stables.

The tack, said to be worth "a five-figure sum", was stolen from stables in Mill Lane, Cowlinge when a door was forced.

Anyone with information about the theft, which happened between 6pm and 10.45pm on Tuesday, November 9, should call Pc Matthew Egan at Bury St Edmunds police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Lawnmower stolen

A RIDE-ON lawnmower, worth around £2,000, was stolen from a garage.

Police want to trace a suspicious man in a white Ford Transit van who called at the house in Aspal Lane, Beck Row, several days earlier offering to carry out repair work.

A lock on the garage was forced before the orange-coloured lawnmower was stolen between 8am and midday on Tuesday, November 9.

Anyone with information should call Pc Emily Bean at Mildenhall police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Amazing hearing has transformed

LYING on the sitting room floor, snoring gently, Quattro the hearing dog is enjoying a well-earned afternoon nap. The black labrador is constant companion to mum-of-three Jackie Fleming who, born severely deaf, says Quattro has transformed her life.

"She's an amazing dog, I wouldn't be without her," says Jackie, bending down to give Quattro a loving pat. "Without my hearing aid I can't hear anything at all, not a single sound. I was born with impaired hearing, so I'm used to it, but it can feel a bit lonely sometimes – and a bit scary."

"With Quattro by my side I feel safe: I know she's looking after me."

Provided by the national charity Hearing Dogs for Deaf People, Quattro acts as Jackie's ears. She is trained to alert her by touch – prodding with her paw – to all manner of everyday noises, from the cooker alarm to the phone and front doorbell. She can also communicate danger by quickly lying down on the floor.

"She's a very intelligent dog," says Jackie in admiration. "Having her has changed my life: I feel a lot more confident now, especially about going out. It takes me a lot longer to get round Tesco these days though – everyone keeps stopping me to ask about my lovely dog."

Hearing impairment runs in Jackie's family: her mother, who lives in Witchford, is the proud owner of a hearing dog called Flynn.

"Because of my mother's hearing problems they tested me when I was about 2," recounts Jackie, settling on the sofa. "Going to school wasn't easy. I felt quite cut off from other people; I didn't have many friends. In those days hearing aids were huge: my mum had to make all my dresses herself, sewing in a special pocket on the chest for the hearing aid to go in."

"You know what kids can be like: they pick on anyone who's a bit different. I had a hearing aid and glasses, so they picked on me a lot. I had my hearing aid and glasses thrown down the stairs, my hearing aid dumped in a jug of orange juice... Those are the kind of things you remember, they stay with you."

"I still feel angry about it: there's one girl in particular I could slap even now."

Jackie says her secondary years were a little easier, thanks to having an older brother at the same school and a learning support worker assigned to help her with her studies. But it wasn't until she moved on to college that Jackie's confidence really began to bounce back: training in horticulture, she knew she'd found her niche.

"I knew I'd never cope in an office; whenever I go somewhere with a lot of background noise I can't hear a word of what anyone's saying – I have to rely on lip reading – and it can be very frustrating," explains Jackie, who lives in Swaffham Bulbeck. "But I loved being outside in the fresh air, working mostly on my own. It suited me. And being at college really opened me up a lot."

Going on to work as a professional gardener, Jackie also had a spell as a nanny – a job which led her to meet Mark, now her husband. "He was plastering for the family I worked for," says Jackie. "We got chatting, I liked him and I asked him out; we've been together ever since."

The couple went on to have three children, Daniel, 16, Charlotte, 14, and India, 11. Although she clearly loves being a mum – there are framed photos of the kids dotted all round the room – Jackie admits the pregnancies took their toll on her hearing. "When I had the kids it did deteriorate," she explains. "I don't really know why. My mum's hearing deteriorated when she was in her 20s; it's an inherited thing."

Jackie is now totally deaf in one ear and has lost 89 per cent of hearing in her other. Thanks to a hearing aid, she is able to hear some speech as long as there's no background interference; despite an amplifier, she finds the phone a real challenge.

"If anyone speaks in a strong accent or they're a bit mumbled, I just can't work out what they're saying," she admits. "It's a bit embarrassing to admit, but I do actually dog Quattro Jackie's life

put the phone down on people sometimes."

Over time, Jackie says she became more and more reliant on friends and family to do her hearing for her. "I used to rely on India, my youngest, most of all," she says. "She was the one who told me when the microwave pinged or the doorbell went."

Jackie first applied for a hearing dog more than 10 years ago. But, a real animal lover, she already had a pet collie – and the charity said she couldn't have an assistance dog too (the close bond hearing dogs form with their owners can cause a lot of friction with existing pets).

"I've always loved animals," says Jackie. "I had a pony when I was little that I adored; riding was my escape from the real world. Nowadays we've got a real menagerie: the dog, cats, rats, chickens, fish..."

After losing Buster, the collie, Jackie applied to Hearing Dogs for Deaf People again. This time she was successful: paired up with a new recruit, a terrier called Pip, she and the rest of the family spent a whole week at a specialist training centre learning all about hearing dogs and the way they work.

Sadly, Pip didn't pass his probation. After living and working with Jackie for several months, he had to be retired. "He was a terrier and he just barked at everything. It was a very tough decision for the whole family – we all loved him – but it just wasn't working."

After losing Pip, Jackie admits she was reluctant to take on another hearing dog. "She didn't want to go through all that again," explains Mark. "Then one day I came home from work and she had this big grin on her face; she said 'D'you want to meet our new hearing dog?..."

This time Jackie had been matched up with Quattro, a more mature dog who'd already worked with another woman with impaired hearing. "She couldn't keep Quattro because she'd just had a baby and getting out for walks was a problem," explains Jackie. "And Quattro and I bonded pretty much straight away: I love her to bits."

Quattro goes everywhere with Jackie. As an official assistance dog, she wears a special coat when she goes out but, even so, she has been refused entry to numerous shops. "It can be quite upsetting," admits Jackie. "And it's embarrassing too. But it really comes down to a lack of awareness: people know about guide dogs, but hearing dogs are less well-known."

Four years ago Jackie went back to college to retrain in animal care, going on to win an achievement award for Best Mature Student. Since then she has been hunting for a job, ideally as an assistant at a vet surgery.

"I went for one interview, but they thought I'd leave Quattro in a kennel while I worked – that's what I mean about a lack of awareness."

Keen to do her bit for the charity, Jackie is now treasurer of the Cambridge branch of Hearing Dogs for Deaf People. "Having Quattro has made a real difference to me: she's not only my friend, she's given me my independence. So I know what an impact having a hearing dog can have; it's amazing."

Charity is funded by donations

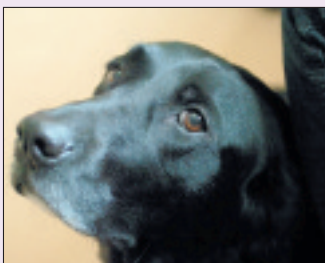

LAUNCHED at Crufts in 1982, the charity Hearing Dogs for Deaf People trains dogs to alert deaf people to specific sounds at home, at work and in public places.

More than 1,500 hearing dogs have been homed in England, Scotland, Wales, Northern Ireland and the Channel Islands; there are more than 80 living and working in East Anglia alone. No charge is made to recipients; the charity is funded solely by donations.

There is a long waiting list for a dog: more than 650,000 people in the UK are severely or profoundly deaf – and could therefore benefit from a hearing companion.

As Jackie's story shows, hearing dogs can change lives. By giving both friendship and practical help, they provide greater independence, confidence and security.

Most of the dogs, trained first by volunteer socialisers and then on a specialist course, are selected from rescue centres or are unwanted pets – so the charity also changes the lives of abandoned dogs.

For more information, visit www.hearingdogs.org.uk or call (01844) 348100.

WHETHER you go with tradition and buy a healthy Nordman Fir each December, or dig out your trusty artificial one from the attic, there's no doubt that the Christmas tree is at the centre of the festive decorations.

Once you've got the perfect tree then it's time to deck it with twinkling fairy lights and sparkly decorations, ready to place those presents under for Christmas morning.

In these credit crunch times a fake tree is the way to go. Follow these tips to buying and maintaining the perfect Christmas tree:

■ Cut trees should be fresh when purchased. The needles should not be dull or dried up, and the branches shouldn't be brittle. The outer needles shouldn't fall off if the tree is gently shaken.

■ After you have bought your tree it should be kept outside in a cool, shaded place, preferably standing in water until it is required indoors.

■ Before bringing the tree inside, cut about half an inch off the trunk to open up the pores, and mount it in a water-holding stand.

■ Keep the container topped up with water – an average tree can drink a pint a day. Don't stand it near a radiator or it may dry out.

■ If you want to grow your tree after Christmas, invest in a bare-root or container grown tree with its roots growing in the pot, slowly acclimatising it to the open by putting it in a sheltered spot initially, before planting in its final home, making sure the root collar is at ground level and watering it in well.

Perfect: All the festive tree really needs is a little imagination!

Mourners pack church for funeral of toddler killed in collision

DONATIONS were collected for the East Anglian Air Ambulance at the funeral of a toddler who died in a road crash.

A horse-drawn hearse was used for the funeral of Henry Blacklock, 3, who died when his father's car was in a collision on Saturday, October 23.

Newmarket's Catholic

Church was packed last Wednesday for the service.

Floral tributes spelling out his name were displayed on the hearse.

Henry, who lived with his mother, Clare Seager, at Thistle Way, Red Lodge, was a passenger in a Renault Clio driven by his father Martin Blacklock, of King Edward Road, Newmarket.

Mr Blacklock, 42, was seriously injured in the crash.

■ A 30-year-old man who was driving a Jaguar involved in the collision is currently on bail after being arrested on suspicion of causing death by dangerous driving.

He is due to return to Cambridge's Parkside police station on December 1.

Artists to brush up on horses

LIFE-SIZE plastic horses are set to be displayed in Newmarket next summer.

A competition is planned for artists and local schools to paint the horses which the town council hopes will attract sponsors to cover the cost.

Schools will have smaller horses to paint and one has just arrived at the town council's temporary offices in Palace Street as an example.

Suffolk county councillor Bill Sadler has indicated that he will support the schools' scheme through his locality budget.

The competition, called Horse About Newmarket,

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

has been "borrowed" from the American horseracing centre at Lexington, Kentucky, where life-size horses were displayed this year when the town hosted the World Equestrian Games.

Newmarket artist Paula Wilson won an expenses-paid trip to Lexington to paint one of the horses using the colours of jockeys' silks.

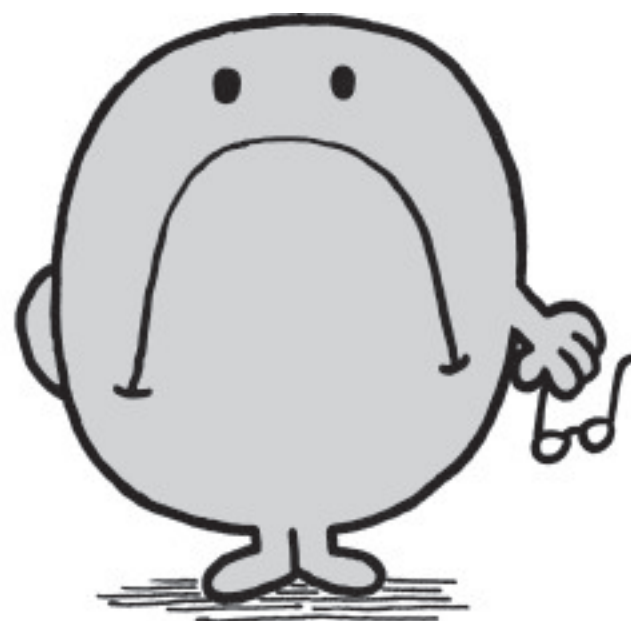

Kay Dawson, the town council's events manager, said: "I think will be good fun and good for the community."

The town's Bedford

Lodge hotel has already agreed to sponsor one of the horses and Coffee and Co has agreed to arrange a syndicate to sponsor one of the horses.

They are due to be displayed during next year's July Festival and will remain on show until December when they are expected to be sold at Tattersalls, the racehorse auctioneers, to raise money for Racing Welfare and St Nicholas Hospice, Bury St Edmunds.

The town council is hoping that at least eight horses will be sponsored and it has agreed to pay £1,200 from its own budget for one of the horses.

Tough defence man dies aged 84

A FOOTBALL legend who captained some of Cambridgeshire's top teams has died at the age of 84.

Tough-tackling centre-half Den Smith played for Cambridge City, Abbey United (now Cambridge United) and Newmarket Town in an illustrious career in both amateur and professional football.

But it was a chance visit to East Anglia that began his footballing career.

While in the RAF in 1947, he cycled from his home in Walthamstow, north London, to Mildenhall to visit a friend, where he was persuaded to play for Newmarket Town, who were a man short.

Despite cycling more than 80 miles, he so impressed Newmarket Town, playing against Bury, that they paid for his train fare home and signed him up.

He later played for Abbey United, and then Cambridge City.

His son Andy said: "They were both massive clubs and would both get crowds of 8,000 to 10,000.

"He never took any prisoners in his tackles. He was hard, but fair."

Former Cambridge City team-mate Roger Pawley said: "I met

Den when I was 18 and he was 38. However, he was always first in any sprints or long-distance runs. He was very fit and quick for a centre-half.

"He was a natural leader in life. He would always be captain."

After leaving briefly for Birmingham, Mr Smith returned to live in Oakington and set up Dentons Carpets with former team-mate Tony Brown, now managed by Mr Smith's sons Andy and Greg.

He also managed Histon FC for four years from 1969.

His funeral took place at St Andrew's Church, Oakington. He is survived by his wife of 59 years, Irene, sons Nick, Andy and Greg, and six grandchildren.

Driver failed to report crash into telegraph pole

A VAN driver crashed his vehicle into a telegraph pole and then failed to report the accident to police, a court heard.

Andrew Myson, a sales technician for fluid transfer solutions firm Pirtek, crashed one of the company's vans in Littleport.

Paul Brown, prosecuting, said: "The crash happened at 4.50pm on August 12. A woman who lives near the scene heard a loud bang and saw a Pirtek van beside a telegraph pole which had snapped in half.

"It happened on the A1101 at Mildenhall Road. Around 20 minutes later, the van driver, which was Myson, left the scene."

Myson, of Hall Barn Road, Isleham, pleaded guilty at Ely Magistrates' Court to failing to report a road accident.

Michael Judkins, mitigating, said the vehicle in front of Myson had braked very sharply. He swerved to avoid the vehicle but hit the verge and then the telegraph pole. He didn't realise he'd have to call the police but did phone BT to let them know but he couldn't get through to anyone there."

Magistrates endorsed Myson's driving licence with five penalty points. He was also fined £215 and ordered to pay £35 court costs and £15 victim surcharge.

A MAN suffered a broken arm and head injuries when he was attacked while queuing for a taxi in the early hours of the morning.

The man, aged 41, was taken to West Suffolk Hospital, Bury St Edmunds, after the incident in High Street, Newmarket, between 1.45am and 1.50am on Sunday. He remains in hospital where his condition was described as stable.

Police said three men were involved in the "unprovoked" attack. One of the men was wearing a black jumper. Anyone who witnessed the attack, or who has other information, should call Det Con Jennifer Hills at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Vandals in play area

YOUNG vandals are being sought by police investigating an arson attack which damaged a children's ride. The incident happened at the play area in Recreation Way, Mildenhall, at around 5.50pm on Saturday.

Four children were seen running from the play area, owned by the parish council, when the damage was discovered.

One of the children was black and in his early teens. He was with a small boy who was wearing a light-coloured hooded top. They were with two girls. Parish council chairman Brian Sulman said: "We seem to be going through one of those phases when there has been more damage and graffiti."

Anyone with information about the incident should call Pc Ian Bell at Mildenhall police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Man denies charge

A 43-YEAR-OLD man has denied a charge of assault.

Robert Starling, of Mereside, Soham, is charged with assaulting Christopher Youngs by beating him in Soham on September 19.

He pleaded not guilty to the charge at Ely Magistrates' Court last Thursday. He will reappear at the court on December 16.

Chance to ramble

RESIDENTS are being invited on a hike around Soham on Saturday. The East Cambridgeshire Rambling Group will be walking a four-mile circular route around the town. The ramble starts at 11.30am at Soham Library. For more information, call Chris on (01353) 723150.

Santa to visit fair

SANTA will visit a residential home for the elderly where a Christmas fair is being held.

The Wamill Court home in Mildenhall is staging the event between 10.30am and 2.30pm on Saturday, November 27.

There is free admission to the event, which will raise money for treats for the residents.

Noel's treat

NOEL Coward's comic critique on society, class and the glamour of Hollywood is being given a fresh new look by the Cambridge University Amateur Dramatics Club this week. Set in the early 1950s, Relative Values highlights a delightful collision between starry Hollywood, stiff-upper-lip England and the perceived differences between the social classes. It is being performed at the ADC Theatre this week until Saturday at 7.45pm. Call (01223) 300085 /www.adc.theatre.com

Trip to GP land

PANTO season 2010 kicks off with the Addenbrooke's Panto, taking place at the Mumford Theatre this week until Saturday. In this year's The Chronic-ills of Narnia, take a fantastic trip to GP land (twinned with Narnia) – that magical place where patients are cured by the power of loveliness. Tickets are £10/£6 on (01223) 352932 or visit www.anglia.ac.uk/ruskin/en/home/microsites/mumford_theatre/information.html

Sixties' sounds

DANCE on down to the Cambridge Corn Exchange on Thursday, November 25 for a sensational Sixties night. The show features original hits performed by original hit makers – The Tremeloes, Hermans Hermits, and The Union Gap. The evening is hosted by Alan Mosca from Freddie and The Dreamers. The music starts at 7.30pm and tickets are priced from £15. Call the box office on (01223) 357851.

Festival evening with music by candlelight

THE Four Seasons by Candlelight tour this autumn celebrates one of the most popular pieces of music ever.

A sumptuous evening of entertainment at the Cambridge Corn Exchange will see the Mozart Festival Orchestra performing Vivaldi's most revered work in full period costume in an evocative candle-lit style setting.

Venetian-born Antonio Vivaldi was a prolific writer with hundreds of concertos to his credit but despite his works being popular during the Baroque period, he died a pauper.

The Four Seasons (Le quattro stagioni) is a set of the first four violin concertos by Antonio Vivaldi. Composed in 1723, it is Vivaldi's best-known work and is among the most popular pieces of Baroque music.

The texture of each concerto is varied, each resembling its respective season. For example, 'Winter' is peppered with silvery staccato notes from the high strings, calling to mind icy rain, whereas 'Summer' evokes a thunderstorm in its final movement, which is why the movement is often dubbed 'Storm'.

The concertos were first published in 1725 as part of a set of 12 concerti, Vivaldi's Op. 8, entitled Il cimento dell'armonia e dell'inventione (The Contest between Harmony and Invention).

CANDLELIT CONCERT: The Four Seasons by Candlelight tour is arriving this month. CP:

The first four concertos were designated Le quattro stagioni, each being named after a season. Each one is in three movements, with a slow movement between two faster ones.

Vivaldi's original arrangement for solo violin with string quartet and basso continuo helped to define the form.

The Four Seasons has, several hundred years later, become a worldwide hit and this concert allows classical music fans of all ages to experience the performance in an environment that conjures up what it would have been like when the piece was performed for the first time.

In what promises to be a fantastic classical journey back to the 18th century, the audience will also enjoy further greatest hits from the period including: Handel: Arrival of the Queen of Sheba; Albinoni: Adagio; Pachelbel: Canon; Stanley: Trumpet Voluntary and Bach:

Concerto for Two Violins.

The concert features David Juritz – conductor/violin, Crispian Steele-Perkins – trumpet, Rachel Nicholls – soprano and Martin Burgess – violin.

The Four Seasons By Candlelight tour calls at Cambridge Corn Exchange on Friday, November 26, at 7.30pm. Tickets are £27, £25, £19.50.

A new take on Mikado

THE most popular Gilbert and Sullivan opera, The Mikado, is being brought to the stage this week by Cambridge Operatic Society.

The society, celebrating its centenary year, will be presenting a brand new adaptation of the immortal classic at the Arts Theatre, directed by James Hurley, whose theatre credits includes both English National Opera and Touring Opera.

The Mikado has a superb musical score featuring some of Gilbert and Sullivan's best-loved songs – including Three Little Maids from School Are We.

On the day before the opening of a radical new exhibition by the artist, Katisha, madness reigns in the Titipu Wing of the Mikado's fantastical art gallery as the penniless student Nanki-Poo fights to win the hand of Ko-Ko's ward, Yum-Yum.

The show runs until Saturday at 7.45pm each night, and 2.30pm on Saturday.

Tickets are £15 - £25 from the box office on (01223) 503333 or visit www.cambridgearts.theatre.com

The big film

YOU AGAIN
certificate U 101m

IF aspiring directors could learn their craft by a process similar to painting-by-numbers, combining basic and familiar elements to create something that crudely resembles a film, then You Again would be the starter kit.

Distinguished by its clumsy, linear narrative and a directorial style that is the cinematic equivalent of a weary sigh, Andy Fickman's romantic comedy is irredeemably clichéd and trite.

Fickman is mired in a morass of revenge and retribution masquerading as female empowerment and sisterly solidarity. The film gradually sucks the life out of his cast and eventually out of us, too.

Marni (Kristen Bell) secures a promotion to vice president of the New York office of her public relations company, and returns home jubilant to northern California to attend the wedding of her beloved brother, Will (James Walkie).

En route, her mother Gail (Jamie Lee Curtis) reveals that Will's blushing bride-to-be is none other than the very same Joanna (Odette Yustman) who made her high school years a misery.

Except that rather than being the sneering bully of old, Joanna has reinvented herself as an earthbound angel and do-gooder, who has her in-laws wrapped around her little finger.

Gail and husband Mark (Victor Garber) adore Joanna, little brother Ben (Billy Unger) thinks she is cool and even the family dog prefers the newest addition to the household.

Determined to prevent Will from making the biggest mistake of his life, Marni vows to expose Joanna as a fraud. Meanwhile, Gail has an unresolved conflict of her own: Joanna's aunt Ramona (Sigourney Weaver), who was her best friend at high school until the teenagers fell out over a boy.

You Again opens with a convincing argument for Joanna being, as Marni puts it, "Satan's spawn" but as the film progresses, we're asked to feel sorry for the bride-to-be as she gets a taste of her own bitter medicine.

First-time screenwriter Moe Jelline doesn't have the skill yet to walk this emotional tightrope so as he stumbles towards one of those resolutions that ensures every character exits with a smile on their face, we struggle to understand why they deserve our blessing.

Help our birds survive bitter winter months

Birds are as important to the wildlife garden as butter is to bread, not only providing interest to budding twitchers, but helping to keep unwanted pests such as slugs and snails under control.

As their natural habitat continues to disappear, it is more important than ever to feed the birds during the winter months.

"In some cases keeping feeders topped up can mean the difference between life and death, especially for some of the smaller birds who lose heat from their bodies extremely quickly when it's really cold," says Gemma Rogers, of the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds.

But there are so many different feeders and seed types on the market, it's difficult to know which are the best.

"There are a lot of nasty feeders out there which can trap beaks and feet," says Rogers, "so you need to go to a reputable supplier. And be aware that some feeders are ridiculously cheap for a reason."

by Hannah Stephenson

Never put out the nylon mesh bags containing fat as birds can become trapped in them. Go for steel mesh feeders and provide a mix of seeds to attract different birds.

Birds require high energy, high fat foods during the cold winter weather to maintain their body reserves to survive the frosty nights. Finches are especially grateful for seeds in late winter and early spring.

In summer they love black sunflower seeds, pinhead oatmeal, soaked sultanas, raisins and currants, mild grated cheese, mealworms, waxworms, mixes for insectivorous birds and good seed mixtures without loose peanuts, on which their young could choke.

Never put out loose peanuts, dry hard foods, large chunks of bread, or fats during the spring or summer months. Make sure you buy 'safe nuts' from reputable outlets and offer them in cages.

Peanuts will attract blue tits, great tits, woodpeckers and even robins if you crush the peanuts, niger seeds will encourage finches and siskins, but the more variety of food you have, the larger the range of birds you are likely to attract.

Small flocks of greenfinches can be a common sight at bird tables, sometimes queuing up with chaffinches and sparrows to take a turn at feeders.

Use bird tables to attract larger birds such as collared doves, wood pigeons and starlings.

There are also many plants you can grow to encourage birds to visit.

Traditional countryside hedges are now full of blackberries, elderberries, rosehips, haws and sloes on which the birds can feed, and you can mimic the classic hedgerow in your garden by planting a fruiting hedge.

The RSPB advises gardeners to mix rugosa roses, elder and hawthorn to act as a wild foodstore, even adding a gooseberry or bramble if there's room. If you have a large garden, try growing hazel (Corylus avellana) for its nuts and attractive catkins.

Other plants, including crab apples, ivy, box-leaved honeysuckle and cotoneaster also add glorious colour to the autumn and winter scene as well as producing fruit and berries for the birds. Avoid sterile hybrids, which won't produce seeds or fruit, but give your garden some colour and nutritious seeds for the birds by planting cornflowers, teasels and knautia macedonica.

If you have fallen apples and pears on your lawn, leave them for the song thrushes and blackbirds who will feast on them.

Let the birds make the most of nature's larder – but make sure you offer them some extra titbits to help them through the winter months.

BEST OF THE BUNCH

Walking around the beautiful gardens in Bressingham, near Diss, Norfolk, last week, the plants that really caught my eye against a backdrop of autumnal tints were the clusters of pink nerines, which stand out from the crowd at this time of year.

THE NEED FOR FEED: many birds rely on the extra food put out in the garden to survive the winter.

These autumn-flowering bulbs, which bloom from September and into November, have long, thin, pointed buds which rise up on bright green stems and explode into lollipops of sugar pink flowers, making a striking addition to warm borders or patio pots. Originating from South Africa, these lily-like plants do like to be in a free draining soil where they can bake in the sun.

The most popular variety, Nerine bowdenii, is fully-hardy but is best planted in groups against a sunny wall. Bulbs should be planted in late autumn or early spring but not too deeply – the tips should be quite close to the surface.

In cold areas, mulch clumps when they have finished flowering to give extra protection against frost, and feed in summer with a high-potash fertiliser to boost flower production. If you plant them in pots, use a loam-based compost such as John Innes No 2 and water well when they are growing strongly.

Morgan: Less can mean more

875cc engine for Fiat 500

IN the years of austerity following the Second World War, when rationing was still in force, several car makers in both the UK and abroad experimented with putting motorcycle engines in small cars.

The lack of a reverse gear and the advent of the flourishing Fifties soon put paid to such an economy-driven idea, but what goes around, comes around – just ask Fiat.

The Italian maker powered its original 500 microcar with a tiny two-cylinder 479cc engine back in 1957 – and the 13bhp unit served the iconic 10 foot-long city runabout well.

Now, here in 2010, comes the 500 TwinAir – an 85bhp unit that has motorcycle proportions with its twin cylinders and very modest 875cc displacement.

It weighs just 85kg, has

THE FIAT 500 TWINAIR: Bluetooth and iPod compatible.

95g/km CO2 emissions that sidestep Britain's road tax levy, and, with the automatic – robotised, Fiat calls it – gearbox, it can return 70.6 miles on a gallon of unleaded fuel. Even the five-speed manual 500 TwinAir does 68.9mpg.

But this is very much an engine of the future, and not the past – this technologically advanced powerplant is the cleanest quantity production petrol engine in the world, yet it still manages to come up with impressive performance figures of 0-62mph in 11 seconds, and a top speed of 108mph.

The TwinAir's green credentials and power compares favourably with many rivals' diesel engines.

Even set against Fiat's own best-selling 1.2-litre petrol engine in the 500, the TwinAir delivers more oomph and a 15 per cent cut in both CO2 emissions and fuel consumption.

It is about to hit British showrooms, and the Fiat 500 TwinAir is priced £10,665 in Pop specification. The frugal two-cylinder will be available across the Fiat 500 and Fiat 500C, or convertible, ranges in all trim levels.

And there will soon be 65bhp and turbocharged 105bhp versions of the same two-cylinder unit, all of which will be produced at Fiat's Bielsko-Biala plant in Poland.

The Fiat 500 TwinAir comes with a stop-start fuel-saving system as standard, and there is also an eco-fitment, which allows drivers to choose either a more economical, or a more responsive, driving mode.

Three-wheelers are back!

THREE-WHEELERS have long had a reputation based on Del Boy's Reliant Supervan or the Robin, but the Morgan Motor Company spent the first 44 years of its existence making sporting cars with two at the front and one at the back.

With the motor car in its infancy, three-wheelers were legally classified as motorcycles and qualified for cheaper road tax, yet offered more of the protection and stability of a car. It should probably come as no surprise then that in 2010 the endearingly traditional company has decided the time is right for a born-again Morgan three-wheeler.

Under the retro-inspired exterior lies a Harley Davidson 1.8-litre V Twin engine packing 100bhp, enough to power it to 60mph in only 4.5 seconds and past 110mph. Despite the performance, the modest weight of 500kg should see it capable of some impressive fuel economy figures too – as well as qualifying for motorcycle road tax.

Prices will be announced early next year with the production version debuting at the Geneva Motor Show in March.

On its way: Morgan's three-wheeler will be launched next year.

PAUL WELLER AND MINI: Raising money for Nordoff Robins and War Child.

Mini is a Brit of all right after Paul Weller creates a whole new look

FOLLOWING his headline performance at Mini's 50th Birthday extravaganza at Silverstone in 2009, mod rock legend Paul Weller has collaborated with Mini to create a one off car which will be sold in a live global online auction with all proceeds going to charity.

The unique Mini Cooper is the ultimate British icon, designed by Paul Weller, built in Oxford and hand-painted by Mini craftsmen. The car will be auctioned for one month from yesterday to raise money for charities Nordoff Robins and War Child.

Weller's inspiration for the design – which features bold pink and brown stripes across the car's entire body and is finished with a single silver line running up the bonnet and over the roof – comes from the colours in a Ben Sherman shirt he designed for the clothing brand some years ago.

Mini UK's director, Jochen Goller says: "Both Mini and Paul Weller are synonymous with the quintessential British mod scene. That's why we were the ideal match to create this unique car."

Paul Weller said: "I've always loved and driven Minis so when I was given the opportunity to design a bespoke Mini Cooper I wanted to create something that reflected the mood and colours associated with the Mod era, which was also the classic Mini's heyday.

"I've decided to donate the car to two charities: War Child is an amazing organisation which works tirelessly to provide protection for kids who live in some of the world's most dangerous places – Iraq, Afghanistan, Uganda and DRC. Nordoff Robbins is the charity that really uses music to transform the lives of kids and adults fundraising to help and support these vulnerable people."

Bidding is taking place at www.paulwellerminiauction.com.

Satnav: Essential after just 16 years

WITH hundreds of millions of people all over the world relying on satellite navigation it's hard to believe that the technology first came on the market in 1994.

When the GPS (Global Positioning System) developed by the US military became available for commercial use it opened the door to the birth of in-car satnav.

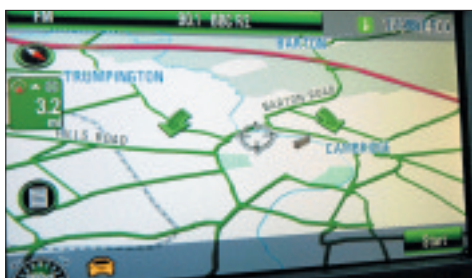

In 1994 the first European navigation systems were fitted into the BMW 7 Series. It only covered Germany, providing a map display and directional arrows but no voice instructions and little in the way of "points of interest" like restaurants, hotels and banks.

That first BMW in-car GPS navigation system included a CD with NAVTEQ maps restricted to the key German towns and cities and main roads in between.

Expanding the map coverage was a high priority but the task of updating maps to reflect the continually changing road network also had to get underway – the first map update became available just a few months later in 1995. Despite its limitations, that first system was cutting edge technology and led to one of the fastest growing markets of its time – personal navigation.

Quickly available on most high-end cars and eventually on the vast majority of car models, the map coverage also continued to expand – NAVTEQ had around 20 countries by 2000, which was also the year the DVD was launched and suddenly one disk could hold a map of the whole of Europe. By 1999 full map coverage of Great Britain was available.

In 2003, came the first hand-held PDAs with SATNAV: This one is on board the latest Saab 9-5 and includes a host of data inconceivable at the start of the 90s.

navigation and then neat, dedicated systems (PNDs).

Next came the mobile phone with a separate GPS receiver which was very quickly overtaken by the 'smartphone' with not only built-in navigation software but also built-in GPS technology.

Popularity of all the options continues to soar. By the beginning of this year, according to iSuppli Automotive Research, there were nearly 300 million turn-by-turn navigation systems worldwide, including about 45 million fitted, in-dash models, 116 million PNDs and an estimated 120 million navigation-enabled mobile phones, smartphones and PDAs.

Methods of sourcing additional or new maps for all these systems developed just as rapidly. With maps being continually updated and coverage fast expanding across the globe, satnav manufacturers began to offer access to this information not only on the traditional CDs and DVDs but also via direct downloads or data cards.

Online map "stores" flourished as satnav devotees valued the importance of the latest data. Road systems, one way streets and speed limits, to name a few, evolve all the time and, unlike an atlas, navigation systems actually direct you to "turn left" or "take the second exit on the roundabout".

These days it has been shown that more effective routing saves time, fuel and money and reduces CO₂ emissions. In fact drivers using a navigation system can reduce the overall distance they drive per year by 1,500 miles and save more than £300 in fuel costs.

Pedestrian navigation is also becoming more popular, particularly in big cities, and there are now specialist "on foot" applications.

They include pedestrian features such as footbridges and public transport access points and stop locations and "shortcuts" used by locals to save time – perhaps through a park, across a pedestrian-only square or even through publicly accessible buildings.

Plus, imagine a world where a component in your car knows exactly where the vehicle is on the road and automatically controls your speed coming up to a sharp bend or crossroads; or calculates 'green' journeys using the least possible fuel by taking into account road surfaces, number of traffic lights, traffic flow and features such as bends, hills and speed limits etc.

And all evolved from a German map in a BMW system 16 years ago...

>> UNDER-14 Sudbury 7 Newmarket 24

RESTORED to near full strength after the previous week's defeat by Shelford, resurgent Newmarket scored four good tries to dominate Sudbury, one of the area's stronger sides.

The home side's early attacks revolved around getting their powerful full-back into the game, but once Newmarket got on top of the play with some good tackling led by Peter Williams and Peter Smith, they launched their own probing attacks.

From their attack, launched at pace, Harry Agnew and James Pritchard took the ball deep into Sudbury territory forcing the home defence to knock on. From the resulting scrum, Jack Barker was driven over.

Sudbury replied with a converted try early in the second half but this spurred on the Newmarket pack, and when possession was turned over, Barker was put through for his second try which Ben Bowers converted.

A third try followed swiftly, Ben May bursting through after Adam Moss won a line-out – Bowers again converting – and Andy Barker brushed through two tackles to add five more points after Rob Challinor picked up from a ruck.

>> UNDER-10
NEWMARKET'S rapidly-improving squad put up a good show before bowing out of the Leicester Tigers' Prima Cup at Swaffham.

Although they did not win a game they were only beaten by one try in their two defeats.

They started with a 5-0 defeat against Woodbridge, a tight, midfield battle where a lucky

Barker's at the double to help under-14s power to victory breakthrough proved decisive.

Their draw came against Cambridge, the side who beat them by 35 points in their last meeting.

And only a last-gasp try-saving tackle from Sorren Price, with a quick follow-up from Stephen Kelleher, kept the scoreline blank.

Newmarket needed to beat a larger, stronger Ipswich side in their final game to progress out of their group. But although they played their best rugby of the tournament, they lost 10-5.

Ipswich scored both tries in the first half but, with Sam Howard constantly pushing the ball to their rivals' try-line. And, from a scrum seven yards out, scrum-half Max Pearson passed the ball down ball down the line, via Jeremy Girgis and Max Catley, to Patrick Bartram, who touched down.

>> UNDER-17

St Ives 29 Newmarket 12

ALTHOUGH Newmarket lost, the result did not reflect their excellent effort and physicality.

The strong St Ives pack opened the scoring after only five minutes

but Newmarket responded with a try from Dale Gibson, which Jack Wade converted.

Newmarket went 12 - 5 ahead when Phil McBride skipped through two tackles to finish off a counter attack led by T J Rowland.

However, St Ives rallied to lead 17-12 and, although man-of-the-match Tom Bircham led by example and was unlucky not to score following a bulldozing run, a late try from an interception did not reflect the closeness of the match.

Newmarket turn on style

A DOMINANT display, carrying forward the form from their stunning National Cup performance against Wessex, helped Newmarket dismiss Peterborough on their return to Cams League action.

Although the clubs have had some classic battles in the past, the visitors were surprised and disappointed the Harriers offered little opposition.

Fielding two new players, Ashley Peterson and Nerijus Lilibinas, Newmarket eased to a 3-0 victory, extending their 22-year unbeaten run against Peterborough.

With key players on the bench in the first set, Harriers had no answer to the Newmarket onslaught and slumped 25-12.

And even when they fielded a stronger line-up in the second set, Newmarket still breezed through 25-12.

The visitors did not even need to break sweat in the third set, cruising home 25-8.

Similarly, Cambridge University, even with a large squad, were swept aside 3-0 on Saturday. Although they worked hard, the students were never a match for a Newmarket side who did just enough to win 25-15, 25-9, 25-15.

Their superiority was illustrated in the second set when coach Peter Saunders made 11 consecutive serves as Newmarket eased 15-1 clear. And the set was closed out by a stunning shoot attack, setter Rob Dovaston firing a fast low ball to Pete Gale who pummelled it into the ground so hard the students never moved. Although they have yet to be seriously tested in the league, there have been advantages with the new setter partnership of Mariusz Opalinski and Dovaston getting a chance to develop ahead of tougher tests later in the season.

Coogan stars on Scenic route

THE ever-competitive Vince Coogan was the first of the seven-strong Newmarket Joggers' contingent home in the Scenic 7 at Stowmarket. He was ninth overall, completing the seven-mile course in 41min 57sec. Steve Edwards was the next Jogger home in 41.57, followed by Dave Cheese in 48.53, which earned him second place in the Male Vet60 category. Mike Sales finished in a personal best 56.52 for the ideal start to his London Marathon preparations while Carolyn Anderson was first woman home in 58.15, closely followed by Jenny O'Callaghan in 60.10. And Jackie Delf made a welcome return to competition, finishing in 67min. ■ Joggers are holding a training run around the three churches, meeting at Moulton at 9.30am or the leisure centre at 9.15am.

Town pride in gutsy display

Long Sutton 6 Newmarket 2

East Women's League, Division 2NW
DESPITE the defeat, Newmarket were proud of their performance against a side who are now second in the table.

Their second-half defiance was encouraging against a side who expected to notch a cricket score after taking an early lead.

However, galvanised by Gail McDonnell, Town fought back and stunned the home side with the quality of their first goal, Di Thomas shimmying past the wrong-footed keeper to polish off a move involving Jenny Richards, Tracy Cockerill and Georgie Kerr.

That glimmer of hope was wiped out by Long Sutton, who went 4-1 ahead before the visitors scored again in the second half, Claire McDonnell cracking home from a free hit on the edge of the D after Zoe Bailey was impeded.

But, although they showed their true colours, valiant Town conceded two more goals – one a penalty flick – to sour a superb performance from keeper Sue Bullimore.

Newmarket Tn 3 Cambridge Nomads III 1

East Men's League, Division 5NW

TOWN expected a tough game against a Nomads side who had beaten two of the other promotion chasers already this season, and the Cambridge side did not disappoint.

Newmarket started with intent and could have scored in the opening forays. But with the visitors playing with three deep centre-backs protecting the top of the D, the home side were unable to play the free-flowing hockey of recent weeks.

William Wilson, however, put Newmarket ahead midway through the half when his ball to the far post was missed by a defender and Josh Dawson, but Mark Pears did not double the advantage until the second half.

Nomads pulled a goal back after Marc Prenice had to go off with a hamstring injury, Wilson came back on from the bench and powered in a shot after a penalty corner.

Wisbech Town III 0 Newmarket III 2

Cams Women's League, Division 2
TOWN managed to raise the temperature, increasing their growing stature with a good win on a chilly late afternoon.

They generated several high-speed attacks through the centre and a flurry of one-touch moves along the flanks, but did not take the lead until Angel Fayers struck until 10 minutes into the second half.

Town relaxed slightly, allowing Wisbech to hit the post with their best chance, but Sophie Bunker's short corner was deflected in by a home defender to seal victory.

Dunlop delight at Fairy magic SNOW Fairy, Ed Dunlop's exceptional dual Oaks winner, landed a huge pot in Japan by winning the Queen Elizabeth II Commemorative Cup. Ryan Moore's mount scooped a bonus of more than £1.4million at Kyoto racecourse when turning in a performance of supreme authority. The three-year-old daughter of Intikhab failed to stay the St Leger trip on her last start, but was in her element in the one-mile-three-furlong Grade One encounter. Snow Fairy had four lengths in hand of Meisho Beluga at the line, with local favourite Apapane third, another length and three-quarters adrift of Dunlop's charge. Moore said: "She put the race to bed in a couple strides. She jumped smoothly and she was in a nice position and she travelled very well. I was drawn beside (Apapane) and I thought she was the best filly, so we kept an eye on her. "We got there sooner than I thought – it just opened up, a big gap. "She just looked for help, so she went to the rail to help her." Dunlop said: "She has a good brain and a very big heart. "She quickened incredibly well, and Ryan gave her the most brilliant ride in the right position. "The great thing from this trip is that we now can have the confidence to travel her around the world. She seems to enjoy it and she seems happy doing it. "If we don't run in the Japan Cup this year, we will certainly consider coming next year."

Reeve blow but Newmarket get into the clear

Newmarket 18 Wanstead 10

London League, Division 3NE

LEADERS Newmarket put some distance between themselves and the rest of the division by beating second-placed Wanstead.

Michael Reeve suffered a broken arm after three minutes as he went for a loose ball in midfield and an opponent kicked his arm rather than the ball. James Payne slotted over the resulting penalty.

John Turner scored a try after a good move midway through the first half, with Payne converting, before Wanstead registered some points to make it 10-3 at half time.

Payne restored the 10-point advantage before the visitors got a converted touchdown. However, after a series of forward drives, Ali Walker went over late on.

Skipper Richard Harper said: "We were never comfortable because it was a very bitty game. It was hard work, but I'm pleased to come away with a win."

Reeve is going to be out until the new year and Harper said their other fly-half Liam Cocks damaged his cruciate ligament in training on Thursday night.

"Paul Ashbridge will move to No 10 until at least the new year now, but we've still got a good enough squad," said Harper.

"It's just not ideal because we've been playing him at centre this year, so we'll have to do things a bit differently."

Meeting key to Tigers' future hopes

MILDENHALL will begin to learn their fate for next season after the sport's annual meeting on Saturday. The BSPA, who now hold the promoting licence for speedway at West Row, will then be able to further advise stadium boss Dave Coventry, who has opened talks with two interested parties. The legal battle involving the stadium and noise complaints has been put back to January 24 when a two-week trial will commence at the High Court. Joe Jacobs also admitted he was pleased to see the back of his turbulent campaign, which was ruined by a forced switch of teams and a three-week injury lay-off. The 17-year-old from Ipswich had increased his average by more than three points when Mildenhall closed mid-season. And, after joining Rye House and finishing runner-up in the British under-18 Championship, he fractured his foot in a smash at Buxton before finishing the year in fine form. "I'm glad the year is over," he said. "It was a bit messed up and disappointing. I would have liked Mildenhall to carry on, achieved an eight-point average and reached the play-offs."

Jockeys sunk by quick Sands

Mildenhall 2 Newmarket Tn 1
Ridgions League, Premier Division

TWO goals from John Sands gave Mildenhall the bragging rights in Tuesday's derby against Newmarket.

The striker, who had a spell with Zamaretto League side Cambridge City earlier this season, struck either side of half time before James Lane replied with a consolation for the visitors.

Kevin Grainger was without centre halves Tom Libertore and Stefan Dancy so new signing Matt Haniver, normally a right-back, made his debut in central defence.

Jason King also failed a late fitness test with suspected cracked ribs but despite the disruption to the starting line-up, Grainger was pleased with his team's performance.

"On the night their strikers were probably sharper than ours," he said. "That was the difference between the two sides. I'm not actually disappointed. That was the best Mildenhall have got and we did well. I thought we played the better football."

Of Haniver, who signed from St Neots,

Grainger said: "He's a great signing. He spoke to quite a few clubs and was impressed by what we're trying to achieve here. He wants to be a part of that.

"Hopefully signing someone like that shows the club is looking to build itself up and wants to do well."

Newmarket Tn 2 Histon res 1
Ridgions League, Premier Division

A BELOW-PAR performance was still enough for Newmarket to beat Histon reserves on Saturday.

James Lane put them in front in the 30th minute, but injuries to Stefan Dancy and Jason King forced the hosts into a reshuffle at the break.

Steve Bell doubled their lead five minutes from time, before Histon responded with a late consolation from Jim Stevenson.

Newmarket are at home to Dereham – the side who lost at Mildenhall last weekend – on Saturday, before the Cambs Invitation Cup, preliminary round clash against CRC on Tuesday.

The winners of that tie will travel to Milton Road to play Cambridge City.

John Sands:
Derby double

Two-goal blast rocks leaders

Mildenhall Tn 2 Dereham Tn 1
Ridgions League, Premier Division

GOALS from John Sands and Carl Murkin gave Mildenhall a superb victory over leaders Dereham.

'Hall made an excellent start and dominated from the start, but they were unable to make it count in a goalless first half.

But it took just 10 minutes of the second half for the hosts to take the lead, Andrew Wood beating four players before crossing to Sands, who smashed the ball into the top corner.

The lead was doubled five minutes later when Murkin poked the ball home following a goalmouth scramble.

As 'Hall continued to apply the pressure, Murkin struck the crossbar and the visitors' task was made even harder when they had a player sent off for dissent.

In a nervy finish, Murkin handled in the area and former 'Hall player Steve Harley converted the penalty, but the home side held on for a memorable win.

'Hall, who are at home to Great Shelford in the first round of the Cambs Invitation Cup, go to Haverhill on Saturday before hosting Godmanchester Rovers in the first round of the Ridgions League Cup on Tuesday.
